

BarranaAI School

Student Report

- REPORT TITLE: Infant Daily - Amy Wilson Filly (Draft)
- STUDENT: Amy Wilson Filly
- TEACHER: Jon Filler
- DATE: February 22, 2026
- REPORT ID: 699b3f138b664a4ba40d9604

Report Content

Student Progress Report

Student Name: Amy Wilson Filly

Grade: Infant Community (Nido)

Date: 2/22/2026

Student Progress Report for Amy Wilson Filly (Grade Infant Community (Nido))

Teacher Observations:

Amy is a diligent student who has been observed to eat her cereal properly and use her lunchbox effectively. She has been using her utensils correctly, demonstrating good motor skills for her age. She also participated in a game of Soccer with her peers, showing her willingness to engage in physical activities and socialize with others.

Academic Performance:

While academic performance at this stage is primarily focused on basic skills development, Amy's ability to use her utensils properly indicates that she is developing fine motor skills effectively. This skill is crucial for future academic tasks such as writing and drawing.

Social-Emotional Development:

Amy's participation in a game of cricket with her peers indicates a positive trend in her social-emotional development. She is showing a willingness to engage with others and participate in group activities, which is an important aspect of her social growth at this stage.

Key Strengths:

Amy's key strengths include her fine motor skills, as demonstrated by her ability to use utensils properly. She also shows a willingness to participate in group activities, indicating good social skills.

Areas for Growth:

While Amy is showing positive development in several areas, it would be beneficial to continue observing her interaction with peers during play to ensure she continues to develop her social skills.

Recommendations:

Encourage Amy to continue participating in group activities to further enhance her social skills. Also, continue to reinforce the importance of using utensils properly to strengthen her fine motor skills.

Overall Assessment:

Amy is showing positive development in her fine motor skills and social-emotional growth. Her ability to use utensils properly and participate in group activities are commendable. With continued support and encouragement, Amy is expected to continue making good progress in her development.

This report was generated using AI analysis of teacher observations.

Generated by BarranaAI School School Management System

Empowering Education Through Technology

Sunday, February 22, 2026